

Business Continuity Kits

Store everything an employee needs to work remotely in our warehouse.

Many of our clients purchased new equipment for remote work use. Now, with staff members coming back into the office, U.S. Messenger is packaging and storing that equipment in Business Continuity Kits. These transportable containers are custom-packed to your specifications, with everything an employee would need to work from home. These kits are stored in our warehouse, deployable within hours. Should challenging times occur again, you'll be ready, and we'll be ready to help.
